PRIMULINUS and MINIATURE FLOWERING TYPES

UNEQUALED FOR THE HOME DECORATIONS — DAINTY AND BEAUTIFUL

For many years the Primulinus and Miniature Gladiolus have been on the upward trend in the Gladiolus world. A. E. Kundred who was so responsible for the improvement and development of these two types now makes it possible for you to have a very wide and popular selection. They excel in the fine pastel colorings, the now heavily blotched throats, the cut edge petals, that make these small flowers so popular. So many ways these small beauties may be useful in decorative arrangements. Try them in your home decoration and you will be startled by their beauty. We offer you a wonder collection of colors that you cannot overlook.

CONTROL OF THE Gladiolus THrip

Gladiolus are frequently infested with a thrip that feeds almost entirely on the gladiolus foliage and flower in the field and also winters over on the bulb in storage. This thrip does not winter over out of doors in the northern areas of the United States.

Thrips may be introduced into a planting on infested bulbs or they may be carried into a planting on infested bloom from a neighbor. The adult thrip can fly short distances and a migration frequently takes place so that an infested planting at a nearby neighbor may be the source of your trouble.

Elimination of the overwintering thrips on the bulbs can be secured by dusting the bulbs with a one, three or five per cent DDT dust. The bulbs should be thoroughly dried off after digging and then dusted with the DDT dust at the rate of one ounce of the dust to a bushel of bulbs. Place the bulbs in a sack with the dust and shake thoroughly, then empty the bulbs out in the storage trays. One dusting is all that is required.

Thrips can be controlled on the growing plant with spray consisting of 1 oz. of tartar emetic, 2 oz. brown sugar to 3 gals. of water. Control can also be secured by spraying with a 1% DDT spray. Use 2½ oz. of a 50% wettable DDT powder to 1 gal. of water, keeping thoroughly agitated. Spraying to be effective must be thorough, both sides of the foliage must be covered with the spray material and the application should be made at regular seven to ten day intervals.

A 5% DDT dust is also effective in controlling thrips in the field. Dusting is not very effective unless a good hand duster is secured that will put out an even fine dust that will cover the foliage with a light uniform dust film. Repeat the dusting application at seven to ten day intervals.

Dust or spray applications should be started when the plants are about six inches high if thrips are present. If no thrips are present on the bulbs at planting time, watch the plants closely during the growing season and start the control program at the first sign of gladiolus thrip infestation.

FORMULA FOR DIPPING GLADIOLUS BULBS

New Improved Ceresan Dip —
1 oz. New Improved Ceresan
3 Teaspoons Dreft Soap Flakes
3 gals. Water

Stir the three above agents; do not use hands when stirring. Soak bulbs in the solution for 15 minutes, bulblets for 30 minutes, then allow to drain before planting. Plant right away and do not treat more than the amount of bulbs you intend to plant. Considerable damage may be had in the event the bulbs become dry after treating. Care should be taken in handling the above material as it is very poisonous.
